We proudly announce that Brenda Perry has been named the 2010 Best CFO of the Year for Midcap Private Companies in Houston, Texas. The award was presented by the Houston Business Journal at a special awards luncheon on Friday, May 21, 2010 at the Wortham Center.

Candidates for this award were required to effectively show how they act as corporate financial stewards by successfully implementing a strategic plan, achieving profitable growth, focusing on the company's strengths, and being a team player and a visionary leader.

With over 45 entities worldwide, it is an absolute necessity that Bray International Inc.'s accounting systems are fully integrated on a worldwide basis and sound financial requirements of ethics, accuracy, and professionalism be implemented and employed at each location. Brenda has performed masterfully in assuring the Bray International consolidated financial statements are reported timely and accurately each month. Her leadership through training, implementation of accounting standards and operating procedures, and overall professionalism has instilled great confidence within our wide-spread organization and in our company as a whole.

Our congratulations to Brenda and her family on winning this prestigious award.
